

Success Factors for migrant students in school

“The illusion of equal opportunities” or:
“primarily it’s the right stable-smell”

Mainly based on: Resch, Nina (2013) Effects of Social Background on Careers in Austria and Germany. An analysis under reference to Pierre Bourdieu. Bachelor Thesis, WU Vienna

Pierre Bourdieu

- ▶ Pierre Bourdieu
- ▶ French Sociologist
- ▶ Born 1930
- ▶ †: 2002

Important concepts:

- ▶ Capital
- ▶ Habitus
- ▶ Field

The illusion of equal opportunities

- ▶ “Equal Opportunities“ is the catchword of our time; the norm of social equality
- ▶ Our system(s) of education don’t help diminishing class privileges – on the contrary: they help to sustain them by creating an illusion of equal chances
- ▶ Higher education has always postulated what it pretends to communicate:
 - ▶ Very good command of language
 - ▶ Elegant style
 - ▶ Familiarity with cultural norms of the upper class
- ▶ As the system doesn’t explicitly produce what it demands, it demands implicitly that students already know: A language and culture whose basis has to be laid out of school, within a family with high socio-economic status

Pierre Bourdieu's Forms of „Capital“

Economic capital:

- What you earn
- What you own
- What you inherit as moveable possession
- Can be easily converted into other forms of capital

Social Capital:

- Resources that are based on belonging to a group.
- Depends on the size of the social network of the person, and capitals owned by the members of the network

Cultural Capital:

Embodied:

Quality of achieving sth. over a longer space of time (dealing with fine arts; music,...)

Objectified:

It is transferable (books, paintings,...)

Institutionalised.:

Achieving of degrees and academic titles that give limited information about the competences of a person

Symbolic capital:

- It's the capital that others recognise and accept → so it is valuable.
- It's important in connection with social Fields

Forms of Capital

(Bourdieu 1986)

“A capital does not exist and function except in relation to a field”
Lutzke et al.
(Bourdieu & Wacquant
1992: 101)

The diagram illustrates Bourdieu's four forms of capital within a large red oval. Inside the oval, a dashed circle overlaps the bottom half. The text is arranged as follows:

- Internal recognition: → symbolic capital (at the top right)
- Cultural Capital:
Knowledge & skills (in the middle left)
- Social Capital:
Friends & networks (in the middle right)
- Economic Capital:
Money (at the bottom center)

Pierre Bourdieu: Habitus

- ▶ Embodied cultural capital becomes a fixed part of a person → HABITUS
- ▶ It is a set of dispositions and competences which are formed through the life of a person, especially during the first years, the childhood and the family of a person.
- ▶ The circumstances under which a family is living and the social economic situation have an important impact on the Habitus.
- ▶ It is extremely difficult to change the Habitus so that attitudes, sets of behaviour, ideologies,... are permanently influenced in a way that a person doesn't fully recognise it.→ Internal set of rules.
- ▶ Structured structure: Habitus is coined by experience within society. All those sets of dispositions are relatively stable
- ▶ Structuring structure: means the creative power of the Habitus. Mechanisms that are innate in a person and that create activities according to rules of society.

Early Childhood Education

- ▶ “It's not the problem how a person is formed into a being of society, but under which circumstances he/she can be a certain part within society with a specific position.”
- ▶ Cognitive abilities: especially language
- ▶ No cognitive abilities: motivation; Motivation, Self-esteem; risk-aversion
- ▶ Social factors: which surroundings, health-care,...
- ▶ Authoritative style of education: stable principles in a cosy surrounding, open communication, self-reliance, development of own viewpoints
- ▶ Educational systems: Prefer kids whose primary Habitus coincides with the aim of the system. → stabilises social fields → no equal chances

Migrant Parents – Competences

(Stefan Gaitanides, Frankfurt, 2001)

- ▶ Low language and educational standards
- ▶ Low identification with the parent's job
- ▶ High physical work-pressure
- ▶ Low income
- ▶ Little challenge due to closer surroundings
- ▶ Negative role model of elder brothers/sisters
- ▶ Dysfunctional education
- ▶ Little contact with school
- ▶ Highest priority of parents and children is to maintain the level of education

School (Studie Frankfurt)

(Stefan Gaitanides, Frankfurt, 2001)

- ▶ School is ignorant towards compound bilingualism
- ▶ Deficit-orientated assessing
- ▶ Not appropriate schools due to abnormalities of behaviour;
- ▶ School is a “strange world”
- ▶ Little contact between school and parents
